

Insurance premium financing

At Deutsche Bank Wealth Management, we believe life insurance to be a critical part of a comprehensive wealth plan. Insurance premium financing (IPF) may allow you to maximize your life insurance policy in a tax-efficient manner, while maintaining your existing investment strategy and providing liquidity.

Advantages

- IPF can be integrated into your trust and estate plans¹
- IPF can provide increased liquidity from borrowing versus paying your insurance premiums out of pocket
- You can avoid disposing of your appreciated assets to fund your insurance premium payments, allowing you to maintain your existing investment strategy

Loan parameters

- Minimum initial loan size of $2,000,000 ($10,000,000 by year five)
- Proceeds must be used for life insurance premium payments, and may also be used to finance the loan's interest and/or fees
- Typical tenor of up to three years – committed, non-revolving structure
- Interest and fees may be capitalized (borrowed under facility)
- Loan amount should be sufficient to fund target premium payments of $2,000,000 per annum
- Full recourse to an individual or wealth vehicle

Collateral parameters

- Insurance policy issuers need to be rated A or better
- Acceptable policy types include whole life, universal life, variable universal life and indexed universal life
- Policy cash surrender value (CSV) and death benefit assignment
- Advance rate of up to 95% of the cash surrender value
- In addition to the CSV of the policy, marketable securities held at Deutsche Bank as collateral are also required
